DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, filed 01/18/2008, with respect to claims 1-10 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the finality of the rejection of the last Office Action has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Harris et al. (USP 6,696,825).

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the feedback circuit must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s) 1. No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. Specification is objected to as it fails to provide critical details to support the claims. The important limitation of the invention is "additional current path", therefore it is critical or essential to the practice of the invention for the specification to clearly define the method used to control "additional current path".

Claim Objections

4. Claim 1 is objected to as being failing to further limit the subject matter; the limitation "additional current path reaches basically immediately a desired value" is obscure because of the term "basically".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "an additional current path that can be opened and closed" (line 5), the terms "opened" and "closed" are ambiguous. Where applicant acts as his or her own lexicographer to specifically define a term of a claim contrary to its ordinary meaning, the written description must clearly redefine the claim term and set forth the uncommon definition so as to put one reasonably skilled in the art on notice that the applicant intended to so redefine that claim term. Process Control Corp. v. HydReclaim Corp., 190 F.3d 1350, 1357, 52 USPQ2d 1029, 1033 (Fed. Cir. 1999). The term "opened" in claim 1 is used by the claim to mean "provided/connected", while conventional meaning of "opened" is "there is not connection/there is not conduction". The term is indefinite because the specification does not clearly redefine the term. If "additional current path is opened" (line 8), it is impossible to have "current flowing through said additional path" (lines 6 and 7).

Claim 10 recites the limitation "opening a controllable additional current path" (line 5) wherein the term "opening" creates the same problem as described above for claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 1-10, as best understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Harris et al. (USP 6,696,825).

Regarding claims 1-9: Harris et al. (FIG 1) discloses power converter comprising: a current path that includes an inductor (Lout) for receiving energy from a power supply (Vsource), and an output capacitor (Cout) for providing an output voltage (Vout); an additional current path that can be opened and closed (path via switch 23), said additional current path formed such that a current flowing through said additional current path reaches basically immediately a desired value, when said additional current path is opened; and a feedback circuit (30, 40, 50, 21) that opens said additional current path, when said output voltage across said output capacitor reaches a predetermined maximum value (Vref, VM; col. 3, line 60 – col. 4, line 5; col. 5, lines 13-26), wherein the inductor provides the energy from the power supply to a parallel arrangement of the output capacitor (Cout) and the additional current path (path via switch 23).

Regarding claim 10: the apparatus disclosed by Harris et al., at its normal operation, provides the method of claim 10.
